

HAWORTH

Game On: The Impact of Culture on Collaboration Space Design

Course Numbers

AIA Course #: HAW617 – HSW

Art & Architecture

IDCEC Course #: 110710 – HSW

Subject Code: 2. Interior Design/9. Programming & Planning

Course Description

Bring your A-game to this interactive and engaging course. Using the regarded Competing Values Framework, you will participate in a gaming simulation to help you learn about organizational culture types. Organizational culture is the personality of a company that contributes to a company's sense of order, continuity, and community.

This 1-hour course explores how to leverage organizational culture when designing collaborative work environments.

Learning Objectives

- Define organizational culture.
- Understand the types of organizational cultures that exist and how they differ.
- Demonstrate how organizational culture can inform the design of the workplace.
- Communicate how organizational culture influences collaboration tendencies.
- Understand how the physical attributes of the space support organizational culture and collaboration preferences.

Course Outline

1. Introduction to organizational culture
2. Gaming simulation
3. Learn the Competing Values Framework
4. Discover how organizational culture influences collaboration preferences and workplace design
5. Explore how the physical attributes of space can support organizational culture and collaboration preferences
6. Discussion with Q&A

View additional available continuing education opportunities at haworth.com.